RULES GOVERNING THE FREE CIRCULATING LIBRARY FOR THE BLIND

Books may be borrowed for thirty days with the privilege of renewing the loan for the same length of time. Books that are to be used as texts for school work may be kept for a longer time if arrangements are made with the librarian.

The following are the regulations of the Postmaster General for sending reading matter for the blind through the mails.

Reading matter in raised characters for the blind, to be entitled to transmission in the mails free of postage, must not contain any advertising or other matter whatever, and must in every case be sent by or returned to a public library or public institution for the Blind.

When mailed by a public library or public institution for the blind the matter must be sent as a loan to a blind reader.

When mailed for return to a public library or public institution for the blind, the sender must be a blind reader.

The matter must be wrapped so that it may be easily examined.

No package is to weigh more than four pounds, except in case of a single volume, and it must not exceed ten pounds in weight.

On the upper left hand corner of the envelope or wrapper containing the matter the name and address of sender must appear, and on the upper right hand corner the word "FREE" over the words "READING MATTER FOR THE BLIND".

Letters written in point print or raised characters used by the blind are not included in the reading matter entitled to free transmission in the mails.

When returning books to the library, no order or communication of any kind in the way of letters or notes, either in ink print or raised characters, can be placed in the package.

Suggestions to Readers

Readers should always place their names preceded by the word "From" on the package when they are returned to the Institution.

In writing for books it would be well to make a list so that if the book preferred is out of the library another on the list may be sent.

Books, when returned to the library, should be wrapped in heavy paper and bound securely with strong cord.

If a contagious disease should break out in a home where a borrowed book is being used, the book should be thoroughly fumigated before it is returned to the library and notice given to the Librarian before the book is sent.
